TWO POLISH FLYERS LEAVE

LE BOURGET

ARE HOPEFUL OF MAKING DIRECT FLIGHT TO NEW YORK

POLISH GOVERNMENT BACKING THE ADVENTURE OF THE AIRMEN

By RALPH HEINZEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Le Bourget Field, Paris, Aug. 3.—The third attempt at a westward flight across the Atlantic this year was underway today with two veteran Polish army fliers, Louis Idzikowski and Casimir Kubala, at the controls of a powerful Amiot bi-plane.

The two started from Le Bourget at 5:43 A. M. today (12:41 A. M. EST) hopeful of making a direct flight to New York. Their attempt is backed by the Polish government.

The start was somewhat sudden. They had been here for several weeks preparing for this flight but had mentioned no departure date. They appeared last night at Le Bourget, ordered 1,500 gallons of gasoline into the tanks of the "Marshall Pilsudski," then at dawn rolled 900 yards down the runway and were off.

For the next thirty or more hours these calm appearing Poles will be out of communication with the world. Their craft carries no radio equipment and the only means of tracing them on this trans-Atlantic attempt will be through vessels that might sight them.

They were assured of good weather between here and the Azores but learned they probably would run into head winds later.

Idzikowski is 36 years old and Kubala 35.

Their plane has a speed of from 100 to 110 miles an hour and a flying range of 5,000 miles. The gasoline capacity is 7,500 litres. They carried 40 litres of food stuffs, champagne and rum. They also had several sacks of letters to be delivered in the United States.

First report of the progress of the Polish plane came when the fishing smack Pinguin reported sighting a white plane, flying seaward, 55 miles off Lorient at 8:15 A. M.

Fishermen could not read the lettering, although the plane flew low. Lorient is 220 miles from LeBourget.

Penman radio station, near Lorient, a little later intercepted a message from an unnamed English steamship, reporting that it saw a white plane heading out over the Bay of Biscay 57 miles southwest of Lorient.

Paris, Aug. 3.—At noon today, the air ministry reported moderate northeasterly winds were prevailing between the French coast and the Azores. It was cloudy but general conditions apparently were favorable the report added.

Washington, Aug. 9.—Fragmentary reports to the United States weather bureau today indicated the Polish trans-Atlantic fliers would have favorable weather conditions between France and the Azores for some distance over the middle Atlantic.

By PEGGY WARD
(United Press special correspondent)

Horta, Azores Islands, Aug. 3.—There had been no sign of the Polish airmen, Majors Louis Idzikowski and Casimir Kubala, late today at about the time French officials estimated they might arrive, if winds were favorable, on their flight from LeBourget airdrome, Paris, to New York.

Officials at LeBourget, basing their estimates on reports that a white airplane was seen over the Bay of Biscay off the French coast in the early forenoon, predicted that the plane would be over the Azores at around 1:45 P. M. CST.

A constant watch was being kept for their plane, Marshal Pilsudski.

Pepole here were puzzled at the statement made at LeBourget airdrome that the fliers could land on a huge landing field here if they desired. Horta people knew of none in the Azores. The fliers could land on many big farm fields, but it would be problematical whether they could rise again.

2 DIE ON GALLOWS FOR SLAYING CLERK OF PENITENTIARY

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 3.—(U.P.)—Charles P. Carey and Benjamin F. Spragins, Jr., died on the gallows in Maryland penitentiary here today for the murder of Alfred H. Walker, penitentiary clerk, in an attempted jail break a year ago.

State Prison, Milledgeville, Ga., Aug. 3.—(U.P.)—Clifford Thompson, country youth, was electrocuted at 2:10 p. m. today for the murder of Coleman Osborne, Chatsworth, Ga., storekeeper, a year ago.

MODERN SOLOMON FROM TEXAS IS NOW IN NEW YORK

FEDERAL JUDGE WM. H. ATWELL DOING VACATION RELIEF COURT WORK

METES OUT FORM OF JUSTICE THAT PUZZLES NATIVE BOOTLEGGERS

By THOMAS L. STOKES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Aug. 3.—A modern Solomon from Texas is giving New York a judicial education.

Federal Judge William H. Atwell, who is doing vacation relief in the federal court in Brooklyn, metes out a form of justice that is a continual puzzle to the native bootleggers.

"What can you expect when he fines one man $500 for doing the same thing for which he fines another one cent?" they ask.

"The answer is easy," said the judge, a white-haired, dignified southerner, "I fit the punishment to the man."

Judge Atwell was an anti-prohibitionist, and used liquor before the 18th amendment was adopted.

"I took a drink and enjoyed it," he said, "but I haven't taken a drink in 10 years, either at home or abroad. I can lean over the bench and tell the man down there before me: 'I'm no hypocrite.'"

The Texas judge studies those who come before him and when the trial is over he knows his man thoroughly. He renders his judgments accordingly. He is strong on the truth. He gave an old man who had been selling liquor a light sentence because he told the truth. He gave another a heavy sentence, because he lied.

A young man came before him for selling a quart of liquor to factory employees. He had been in jail 45 days, unable to get bail.

"You've been punished enough," the judge said. "One cent fine."

Judge Atwell fined a grocer who sold liquor $125.

He explained that if the grocer was breaking this law, he might not be quite honest in other matters.

"You might not give me 16 ounces for a pound," he said.

He talks in a kindly way to those whom he sentences. The Texas judge said he often visits the jails in his district and corresponds with many men whom he has sentenced, and upon all sorts of subjects.

He was a lawyer for a long time, and does not hesitate to criticize that profession.

"I really think the public disgust in the administration of law is traceable to the unethical conduct of lawyers," he said.

15-Year-Old Boy Sought in Connection With Murder in Portland

Portland, Ore., Aug. 3.—(U.P.)—A 15-year-old boy was sought today in connection with the murder of Ephraim Dewey, 60, retired newspaper man.

Dewey's body was found yesterday with a bullet wound in the neck, following a trip to a beach with the boy, Rex Read. Read had been employed by Dewey on the Portland Oregonian, it was said. The aged man had taken considerable interest in the youth's welfare.

It was reported Read had attempted to sell Dewey's automobile in Salem, Oregon, following the finding of Dewey's body.

The search for the boy was extended today to Roseburg, Medford and northern California cities.

Death Toll of Wednesday's Storm Mounts to 6---Adds 4 Drownings and Lineman Killed

1 PREVIOUSLY REPORTED DEATH WAS MOTORIST

DROWNINGS OCCURRED WHEN 4 WERE DRIVEN OUT ON LAKE BY STORM

LINEMAN WHILE REPAIRING A LINE CAME IN CONTACT WITH LIVE WIRE

Minneapolis, Aug. 3.—(U.P.)—The death toll of Wednesday's storm mounted to six today when persons were reported drowned and an electric lineman was killed in repair work. Another lineman was perhaps fatally injured at Watertown, Minn. The previously reported death was that of an Albert Lea motorist.

The four persons drowned while struggling through the storm in a rowboat to reach the shore of Lake Minnewashta near here were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hodgkinson and Edward A. Thompson, all of Minneapolis and Orville Daggett, Windom, Minn. They started for the shore with the first indications of the impending storm but were halted when an oar broke a few feet from land.

The storm carried the boat across the lake. The capsized boat and cushions and belongings of the party were found in the lake late Thursday.

William Noll, Minneapolis lineman, was instantly killed when he came in contact with a live wire while working at the top of a pole in the outskirts of the city. Joseph McInerney, also of Minneapolis, was injured when he came into contact with the wires.

Alec Frane, Minneapolis, was critically injured when he touched a high voltage wire while engaged in repair work at Watertown, Minn.

11 HORSES BURN TO DEATH IN BARN FIRE

St. Paul, Aug. 3.—(U.P.)—Eleven horses were burned to death when fire destroyed a barn at state fair grounds here early today.

Efforts to rescue the horses were unsuccessful as the fire was not discovered until the major part of the building was in flames.

SECRET OF ATOM Baffles Scientists

WORLD WILL SOME DAY BE OVERAWED BY AMAZING ATOMIC DISCOVERIES

Chicago Aug. 3.—(U.P.)—The secret of the atom is the basis of some of chemistry's most difficult transformations. Dr. Frank C. Whitmore, head of the Northwestern University chemistry department, told the American Chemical Society institute here.

"A world that is weary of miracles some day will be overawed by amazing atomic discoveries which lie just around the corner for science," Whitmore predicted.

Dr. Whitmore said the properties of substances had been changed almost entirely by juggling with the number of atoms composing them, or by simple rearrangement of the atoms.

ANGERED CITIZENS SEEK TO LYNCH NEGRO ATTACKER

Duncan, Okla., Aug. 3.—(U.P.)—Angered citizens attempted to enter the Stephens county jail early today, seeking James Forest, negro, alleged attacker of a white woman, but were repelled without casualties.

Guards continued to police the exterior of the jail where Forest, believed critically wounded by possemen when they captured him last evening, was held.

Romance Isn't Dead—Quite

Maybe George D. Noebeling, Greenwich Village habitue and scion of wealthy Philadelphia family, is a throwback to the age of chivalry—or something. At any rate he fought a duel for his "lady fair" and then tried to take his life because he couldn't get a job as an actor. The lady in question, Billy Netcong, is pictured consoling him in Knickerbocker Hospital, whither he was taken after leaping 75 feet to the hard pavement in Morningside Park. He's going to recover, marry Billy and live happily ever after.

TEMPERATURES SOAR IN GREAT LAKES AREA

Cleveland, O., Aug. 3.—(U.P.)—Temperatures soared in the Great Lakes area again today after one of the warmest days of the summer. Three heat deaths and one drowning were recorded yesterday.

ATTEMPT AT TRANS-ATLANTIC FLIGHT FAILURE

CAPTAIN COURTNEY AND 3 COMPANIONS PROCEEDING TOWARDS NEW YORK

ARE ABOARD ATLANTIC LINER MINNEWASKA AFTER THRILLING RESCUE

New York, Aug. 3.—(U.P.)—Their attempt at a trans-Atlantic flight a failure, Captain Frank T. Courtney and three companions proceeded towards New York today aboard the Atlantic Transport Line's Minnewaska after a thrilling rescue in mid-sea.

The fliers had been forced down enroute from the Azores to Newfoundland. But the sturdy Dornier Napier flying boat rode out the calm waters and about 5 P. M. yesterday the Minnewaska pulled alongside and rescued the four men.

The fliers had ridden out the sea for almost 12 hours while some of the great ships of the trans-Atlantic fleet switched from their courses to go to their rescue. The first message of the fliers' plight was received about 8 A. M. Thursday and it took almost nine hours for the nearest boats to arrive.

With Courtney were E. H. Hosmer, Fred Pierce and E. W. Gilmour—all were well when rescued.

The Minnewaska is expected to dock at New York Monday.

Courtney had made about 605 miles after leaving Horta.

It was his second failure in a trans-Atlantic attempt. A year ago he attempted to start a flight to the United States by way of the Azores and was forced down at Corunna, Spain, by strong head winds.

Courtney had undertaken the flight in an attempt to prove the feasibility of flying boats in trans-Atlantic service. The fact that his heavy machine could ride out the breakers for several hours may be considered part of the proof of feasibility.

London, Aug. 3.—Captain Frank T. Courtney, trans-Atlantic flyer rescued at mid-sea yesterday by the S. S. Minnewaska, today sent the following radiogram to the Star:

"We were picked up by the Minnewaska after a terrible experience. Our machine caught fire at midnight at 1,500 feet and landed in flames on a rough sea."

In a radiogram to the Evening News, the commander of the White Star liner Cedric said that Courtney's plane had been abandoned when the crew was embarked on the Minnewaska.

CONFESSES 12 HOURS BEFORE HER HUSBAND WAS TO BE EXECUTED

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 3.—(U.P.)—Twelve hours before her husband was to be electrocuted here today for the murder of a merchant, Mrs. Clifford Thompson confessed that she and a lover killed Coleman Osborne of Chatsworth, Ga., and "framed" the husband whom she ceased to love.

The blond haired young woman by her midnight confession apparently saved Thompson from the execution, scheduled before noon.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 3.—Eula Mae Thompson lost her last minute attempt today to save her husband's life.

Gov. Hardman of Georgia declined to grant Clifford Thompson, convicted murderer, a respite after perusing an alleged confession by Mrs. Thompson that she and her lover were guilty of the slaying of Coleman Osborne, Chatsworth, Ga., merchant.

Thompson and Jim Moss, a negro convicted with him, face death in the electric chair of the state prison early this evening.

STATE SUPREME COURT RENDERS DECISION TODAY

FAVORS OWNERS AND LESSORS OF ORE IN SUITS FILED

FORMER SOUGHT TO OBTAIN PAYMENT OF ROYALTY TAXES BY LESSEES

St. Paul, Aug. 3.—(U.P.)—The Minnesota state supreme court today upheld the state royalty tax on iron ore as constitutional.

The decision favors owners and lessors of ore who sought to obtain payment of royalty taxes by lessees. In all cases owners or lessors have paid royalty taxes in past years and sought to collect the amounts of the taxes from the lessees.

Suits were filed in St. Louis county and the defendants filed answers calling the royalty tax unconstitutional on the grounds that the tax title did not cover taxation of interest or estates in realty and that it violated the state and federal constitution.

The decision explains that while the owner who operates his own mine pays no royalty tax he must pay an occupation tax. The operator who leases the mine he works may deduct the amount of the royalty tax from the occupation tax.

Cases decided today are those of Irene V. Fraser vs. Vermillion Iron Company, Laura A. Day vs. Crete Mining Company, Laura A. Day vs. Inland Steer Company, and H. B. Fryberger vs. Inland Steel Company.

INTERNATIONAL PACT PREVENTED SENDING AID TO SCHOONER

Washington, Aug. 3.—(U.P.)—An international agreement between the United States and Great Britain under which coast guard vessels were prohibited from entering British territorial waters prevented dispatch of aid today to a five-masted schooner wrecked on East Brother rock, five miles east of Great Isaac in the Bahamas with 23 men aboard.

The steamship Matocoline radioed coast guard base number six at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., that the schooner needed help. The Fort Lauderdale base forwarded the request to Washington and was advised that it would be impossible to send assistance because of the recent agreement.

A few months ago the coast guard vessel entered British waters in search of rum runners. This led to a controversy which resulted in the transfer of the coast guard boat captain and the agreement to keep coast guard boats out of Bahaman waters.

SENATOR-ELECT VARE IS 'SLIGHTLY BETTER'

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 3.—(U.P.)—Senator-elect William S. Vare, of Pennsylvania, who suffered a stroke of paralysis late Wednesday was reported "slightly better" today but still in a critical condition.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 3.—Senator-elect William S. Vare's condition took a turn for the better today, a bulletin issued at 11:30 A. M. said.

Dr. John J. Shaw, Philadelphia, issued the bulletin, which read: "Senator Vare's condition is better if anything. His temperature is 95 degrees, only slightly above normal."

PRINCESS VICTORIA AND HUSBAND IN CANADA AS TOURISTS

Quebec, Aug. 3.—(U.P.)—L'Evenement, French language morning paper, said today that Princess Victoria Von Schaumburg-Lippe, sister of former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany, arrived in Quebec City last night with her young husband, Alexander Subkoff.

The couple registered under an assumed name, but admitted their identities when questioned, L'Evenement says.

According to the paper, Princess Victoria declared she and her husband were in Canada "as tourists."

PRINCESS VICTORIA AND HUSBAND IN CANADA AS TOURISTS

Quebec, Aug. 3.—(U.P.)—L'Evenement, French language morning paper, said today that Princess Victoria, Von Schaumburg-Lippe, sister of former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany, arrived in Quebec City last night with her young husband, Alexander Subkoff.

MORE SIGN IN DRIVE

Business Men Enthusiastic for Country Club Improvements, Committee Reports

ARE WILLING TO HELP

Seven Leading Business Firms Signed Earlier in the Week

The prospect for grass greens for the Brainerd Country club golf course grew still brighter this afternoon when the soliciting committee reported the signing of eight additional members. They are: George W. Murphy, O'Brien Mercantile Company, Alderman-Maghan Company, Johnson Pharmacy, Dr. J. A. Thabes, Sr., Dr. J. A. Thabes, Jr., The New Brainerd Hotel, and Archer's Cafe.

"Practically every business man we talk with is enthusiastic over the prospect of grass greens for the Country club course and is ready and willing to do his bit. I think the project will go over in fine shape" were the words of the chairman of the soliciting committee this afternoon while discussing the attitude of the business men on the proposal.

This list together with the seven leading firms that signed earlier in the week gives the soliciting committee a fine start on a drive that promises to lead to the improvement of the Country club course and keep tourists in the lake district instead of making them travel to nearby cities where they can play a round of golf with the advantage of grass greens.

THE terrific punishment of long trips at high speed has no terrors for SHELL MOTOR OIL. Just the right body... thin enough to flow freely and cushion every moving part with a tough, clinging film... heavy enough to stand the gaff.

When your foot has held the accelerator down on the floor-board for hours at a stretch, it is natural to be a little uneasy about the oil "standing up" unless it is SHELL.

SHELL MOTOR OIL is made for just such grueling service. The carefully selected crudes which are its base... the special refining process employed... and the specifications to which it is refined, combine to produce an oil of exactly the right body... heavy enough to flow freely to every moving surface... unharmed... a constant protection to your motor and pocketbook.

Nobody forces a car to the limit all the time, but it gives a comfortable feeling of security to know that your engine is always protected by a lubricant which will withstand a far more severe test than you could possibly give it.

GOAT CELEBRATES ENTRY TO CAMP

"Nogo" Enjoys Duties of Mascot at Camp Clearwater
for Scouts

DISTURBS BOYS' MEAL

Camp Closes Tomorrow; Tour to Itasca Park
Arranged

A white "kid" came to Camp Clearwater for boy scouts Wednesday and there has been little rest since that incident.

The delightful disturbance is "Nogo," genuine Swiss goat, who has been given to the camp by the Lotta Goat Ranch of Bay Lake as a mascot.

The goat celebrated his advent to camp by eating up the first broom he found. Last evening while the scouts were eating he coaxed his way into the messhall, jumped on the table and upset the customary order that prevails at meal time.

Camp Clearwater closes tomorrow after a most successful season. One hundred and twenty five boys participated in the activities at the camp this season while 18 took part in the work at the Pine Beach caddy camp for scouts.

B. Perry Newton, scout executive, who has been in charge of the two camps, will direct a four day tour for the junior scout officers at the camp into Itasca Park starting Sunday.

Headquarters in Itasca Park will be established at the Nicollet Rangers' camp. Boys to make the trip are: Gordon Cross, Staples, assistant camp director; James Richards, Brainerd, director of commissary; Charles Guernon, Little Falls, assistant water front director and special activity; and J. Garceau, Crosby, handicraft.

Easy to Remember

In one of the large downtown stores a clerk was telling a customer from where he had come "Briefly," he said with a delightful accent, "I come from Cork, but to be more specific I come from Farrandahadoremore, which is a little smaller than Farrandahadoremore, which is a little smaller than Farrandahadoremore. My father came from the village, or suburb of Gurteenaspigbeg, which is larger than Gurteenaspigbeg." In Ireland there are a great many places with names a good deal bigger than they are.—Detroit News.

Hopeless

It was during the dollar day rush that little Perry was separated from his mother and before long his sobs made him the center of an interested crowd.

A number of the women tried to console him, and told him that his mother was close by, but the little fellow would not believe it. Finally he blubbered: "I look an' I look, an' I cry an' I listen, an' not one of you has my mudder's face."

Not Mated

Billy was very much excited over the arrival of a new baby brother and spread the news all over the neighborhood.

"Does he look like you?" asked the corner groceryman, trying to be sociable with one of his best penny customers.

Billy thought it over for a few moments and then replied seriously: "Oh no, he is a much deeper shade than I am."

Two Results of Pride

There is this paradox in pride—it makes some men ridiculous but prevents others from becoming so.—Colton.

Principals in "Big Top" Romance

Here's the first photo of Lillian Leitzel—leg queen of the circus—Alfredo Cordi—and her gymnast husband, following their wedding recently under the "big top" in Chicago. The queen of all aerialists and her acrobatic hubby plan to keep on amusing the great American "peepul" despite their new domestic status. The petite circus star and the boy of her heart have been man and wife since childhood.

NORTH NOKAY LAKE

Arthur Peterson, Thomas Thorson, Martin Olson and their families were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Klippness Saturday evening.

Ole Norgard, Mr. and Mrs. John Nelson and family, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Edquist and children were Brainerd visitors Saturday.

Miss Bessie Smith will teach at the Nokay Lake school this year.

Andrew Tollefson is marketing new potatoes now.

Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Edquist and family were callers at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Olson and Mr. and Mrs. John Nelson.

Charles Isle has been dragging the road on the mail route after the rain.

Charles Klippness is weed inspecting this week.

Mrs. Gye Bye and children were guests at the home of her brother, Martin Olson, Tuesday.

Ancestry of Chow Dog

The native home of the chow dog is China, particularly the northern portion, in which country it has been bred for a great number of years. No specific data are available regarding the breed's origin, but from the general characteristics exhibited by representative individuals today it is practically certain that the ancestry traces back to dogs of the Arctic, particularly the Eskimo.

Mounting Medals

The Smithsonian Institution mounts medals on black cardboard, placing camphor under the glass cover, which is the same size as the cardboard, and frames with wooden molding. The camphor keeps the medals from tarnishing.

GOAT CELEBRATES ENTRY TO CAMP

"Nogo" Enjoys Duties of Mascot at Camp Clearwater for Scouts

DISTURBS BOYS' MEAL

Camp Closes Tomorrow; Tour to Itasca Park Arranged

A white "kid" came to Camp Clearwater for boy scouts Wednesday and there has been little rest since that incident.

The delightful disturbance is "Nogo," genuine Swiss goat, who has been given to the camp by the Lotta Goat Ranch of Bay Lake as a mascot.

The goat celebrated his advent to camp by eating up the first broom he found. Last evening while the scouts were eating he coaxed his way into the messhall, jumped on the table and upset the customary order that prevails at meal time.

Camp Clearwater closes tomorrow after a most successful season. One hundred and twenty five boys participated in the activities at the camp this season while 18 took part in the work at the Pine Beach caddy camp for scouts.

B. Perry Newton, scout executive, who has been in charge of the two camps, will direct a four day tour for the junior scout officers at the camp into Itasca Park starting Sunday.

Headquarters in Itasca Park will be established at the Nicollet Rangers' camp. Boys to make the trip are: Gordon Cross, Staples, assistant camp director; James Richards, Brainerd, director of commissary; Charles Guernon, Little Falls, assistant water front director and special activity; and J. Garceau, Crosby, handicraft.

Easy to Remember

In one of the large downtown stores a clerk was telling a customer from where he had come. "Briefly," he said with a delightful accent, "I come from Cork, but to be more specific I come from Farranadahadmore, which is a little smaller than Farranadahadmore, which is a little smaller than Farranadahadmore. My father came from the village, or suburb of Gurteneaspigbeg, which is larger than Gurteneaspigbeg. In Ireland there are a great many places with names a good deal bigger than they are.—Detroit News.

Hopeless

It was during the dollar day rush that little Perry was separated from his mother and before long his sobs made him the center of an interested crowd.

A number of the women tried to console him, and told him that his mother was close by, but the little fellow would not believe it. Finally he blubbered: "I look an' I look, an' I cry an' I listen, an' not one of you has my muvver's face."

Not Mated

Billy was very much excited over the arrival of a new baby brother and spread the news all over the neighborhood.

"Does he look like you?" asked the corner groceryman, trying to be sociable with one of his best penny customers.

Billy thought it over for a few moments and then replied seriously: "Oh no, he is a much deeper shade than I am."

The petite circus star and the boy of her heart have been hearties since childhood.

Ancestry of Chow Dog

The native home of the chow dog is China, particularly the northern portion, in which country it has been bred for a great number of years. No specific data are available regarding the breed's origin, but from the general characteristics exhibited by representative individuals today it is practically certain that the ancestry traces back to dogs of the Arctic, particularly the Eskimo.

FAULTY HEADLIGHTS

WE note a police drive in Minneapolis against motorists with glaring or defective headlights. Some 666 persons were tagged within a few hours. This suggests the seriousness of the headlight problem and the difficulties of headlight regulation.

The conditions in Minneapolis are reflected in other cities and districts. Lights are so glaring and many so out of focus that many motorists of the Brainerd Lake Region have discontinued night driving.

Many motorists observe the beam in the other fellow's headlight and inveigh against the latter's thoughtlessness, while they neglect to correct the failings of their own headlights.

In reviewing the situation in Minneapolis, the Minneapolis Tribune says that drivers of automobiles, as a rule, have a rather thorough appreciation of the hazards inherent in the glaring or out-of-focus light; they will heartily endorse the theory of headlight regulation, will comment vehemently on the mental incompetence of any or all offenders, will suggest a means of improvement for every pair of headlights met on the road, and yet they will not, in a great many cases, look to their own shortcomings.

It is the headlights of the other driver that present the hazard, and it is the headlights of the other driver, therefore, which have been the target of merited but usually futile abuse. The habit of introspection, as regards headlights at least, does not seem to have been fully developed in the motorist. He has not the facility, except as it is conferred by occasional tags, to see himself as others see him. And he presents, therefore, an extremely vexing problem.

The vast majority of headlight offenders are unwitting ones. Probably not one motorist in a hundred would deny that glaring lights are a constant menace to safety, nor would one motorist in a hundred dispute the wisdom of ordinances looking to proper regulation. The need, obviously, is not so much for a wholesale administration of fines and court rebukes as for a persistent, good humored policy of education. The motorcycle policemen, armed with tags of a rather innocuous sort, seemed to have been efficient tutors. It is to be hoped that their lessons, intended for a few, will be quietly absorbed by a forward-looking majority.

LIBERTY—HAPPINESS

CALVIN COOLIDGE is a silent man. He speaks little but when he does, he says something. He showed this phase of himself to the Northwest at Cannon Falls, for here, where he might have made a stereotyped address, he seized upon the occasion to set forth an observation of our present-day social structure that is remarkable for its clarity, truthfulness and compactness, says the Superior Telegram. He said:

"It has been demonstrated that what never could have been created under a condition of servitude is the almost natural result of a condition of freedom. Human nature has been so designed that men are only at their best when they are permitted to live like men. It is when they are released from the bondage of the body, given control over their own actions, receive the returns from their own labor, and released from the bondage of the mind so that ignorance and superstition are replaced by education and moral influences, that most progress is made toward an enlightened civilization."

The reasons for America's greatness, for its prosperity and happiness he named in that paragraph. He said other things in the speech. He told how sectionalism is now ended between the North and South, he eulogized Colonel Colville and traced briefly the history of the South following the Civil war, but the heart of his address was in that paragraph.

Other Presidents have said similar things. Some of them were learned students of economic problems. But it is doubtful if any of them ever saw as clearly as does President Coolidge, the relation between the material well-being of this nation and the independence and liberty which its citizens enjoy. It is something that they have, largely, overlooked.

An observation like that comes easily from President Coolidge, who, like few other men, fitted himself through long service to the public for the office of President. His whole life has been shaped toward preparing him for public office and responsibility and this expression, at Cannon Falls may be regarded as a crystallized example of the philosophy of life and politics that has guided Calvin Coolidge to the highest office in the land.

TOURIST BUSINESS INCREASING

THE DISPATCH published a news story the other day which gave an indication of the growth of the tourist business in the Brainerd Lake Region. During the month of July this year, Andrew Anderson, deputy oil inspector, inspected 80 carloads of gasoline. Last year in the same month, he inspected 63 carloads.

Another indication is the growth of telephone service. Direct long distance lines have been added to Minneapolis, Pine River and Breezy Point.

Three new direct long distance telephone lines were opened for service early in July, according to Henry D. Hoffmann, manager of the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company. These new lines were provided to care for the increased use made of long distance service for these points.

Before the new lines were opened some of these calls to and through Minneapolis had to be switched at Little Falls and St. Cloud. This switching is no longer necessary.

Brainerd now has four direct long distance telephone connections to Minneapolis, three to Duluth, three to Crosby, three to Breezy Point, two to Pine River, Wadena and Aitkin, according to Manager Hoffmann.

About 500 long distance calls a day are handled in the local telephone central office. Toll service has increased 100 per cent in the last three years. In former days 300 calls was considered a big day, nowadays 600 calls a day are sometimes handled in long distance work.

It all indicates the growth of lake and tourist business.

MR. HOOVER is going to conduct a front-porch campaign as soon as he can remember where he lives when at home.—Ohio State Journal.

I. O. O. F. DOWNS Y. M. C. A. IN A LOOSE GAME ON TUESDAY

Last Tuesday night I. O. O. F. downed the Y. M. C. A. team at municipal field 6-2, in a loosely played city league game. The I. O. O. F. boys collected six hits off of Fogelstrom but the Y. M. C. A. boys afforded him poor support, eight errors being chalked against them. Grant turned in a two-hit game for the I. O. O. F. team but three errors by his team mates allowed two opponents to circle the bases.

H. Bernard, Richmond, Loom and Turkildson crossed the plate in the first inning to put the game on ice for the oddfellows. Anderson and Laifala scored the two only tallies for the Y. M. C. A.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—(U.P.)—Les Marriner, former University of Chicago football star, met the first defeat of his short but busy heavy-weight fist career here last night when Chuck Wiggins of Indianapolis was awarded the decision in their ten round bout at Mills stadium. ## Watching the Scoreboard

(By United Press)

Yesterday's Hero—Walter Stewart, St. Louis Brown pitcher, whose single in the fifteenth inning scored Blue to give the Browns a 4 to 3 victory over the New York Yankees.

The Philadelphia Athletics made it fifteen wins in sixteen starts by defeating Cleveland 6 to 0. George Earnshaw, recruit pitcher, allowed only six hits. The Athletics are now only four and a half games behind the Yankees.

Art Delaney's bases on balls in the first inning gave the Cardinals a three run lead which the Boston Braves were unable to overcome. St. Louis won 6 to 1.

The New York Giants went into second place in the National league by defeating the Cincinnati Reds 7 to 5. Joe Genewich won his fifth victory in eight starts.

The Pittsburgh Pirates scored 12 runs before Philadelphia could push across one, winning 18 to 4. Grant-ham and Wright hit homers.

The Chicago White Sox made it six straight by defeating the Boston Red Sox 6 to 3.

FAULTY HEADLIGHTS

We note a police drive in Minneapolis against motorists with glaring or defective headlights. Some 666 persons were tagged within a few hours. This suggests the seriousness of the headlight problem and the difficulties of headlight regulation.

The conditions in Minneapolis are reflected in other cities and districts. Lights are so glaring and many so out of focus that many motorists of the Brainerd Lake Region have discontinued night driving.

Many motorists observe the beam in the other fellow's headlight and inveigh against the latter's thoughtlessness, while they neglect to correct the failings of their own headlights.

In reviewing the situation in Minneapolis, the Minneapolis Tribune says that drivers of automobiles, as a rule, have a rather thorough appreciation of the hazards inherent in the glaring or out-of-focus light; they will heartily endorse the theory of headlight regulation, will comment vehemently on the mental incompetence of any or all offenders, will suggest a means of improvement for every pair of headlights met on the road, and yet they will not, in a great many cases, look to their own shortcomings.

It is the headlights of the other driver that present the hazard, and it is the headlights of the other driver, therefore, which have been the target of merited but usually futile abuse. The habit of introspection, as regards headlights at least, does not seem to have been fully developed in the motorist. He has not the facility, except as it is conferred by occasional tags, to see himself as others see him. And he presents, therefore, an extremely vexing problem.

The vast majority of headlight offenders are unwitting ones. Probably not one motorist in a hundred would deny that glaring lights are a constant menace to safety, nor would one motorist in a hundred dispute the wisdom of ordinances looking to proper regulation. The need, obviously, is not so much for a wholesale administration of fines and court rebukes as for a persistent, good humored policy of education. The motorcycle policemen, armed with tags of a rather innocuous sort, seemed to have been efficient tutors. It is to be hoped that their lessons, intended for a few, will be quietly absorbed by a forward-looking majority.

LIBERTY—HAPPINESS

CALVIN COOLIDGE is a silent man. He speaks little but when he does, he says something. He showed this phase of himself to the Northwest at Cannon Falls, for here, where he might have made a stereotyped address, he seized upon the occasion to set forth an observation of our present-day social structure that is remarkable for its clarity, truthfulness and compactness, says the Superior Telegram. He said:

"It has been demonstrated that what never could have been created under a condition of servitude is the almost natural result of a condition of freedom. Human nature has been so designed that men are only at their best when they are permitted to live like men. It is when they are released from the bondage of the body, given control over their own actions, receive the returns from their own labor, and released from the bondage of the mind so that ignorance and superstition are replaced by education and moral influences, that most progress is made toward an enlightened civilization."

The reasons for America's greatness, for its prosperity and happiness he named in that paragraph. He said other things in the speech. He told how sectionalism is now ended between the North and South, he eulogized Colonel Colville and traced briefly the history of the South following the Civil war, but the heart of his address was in that paragraph.

Other Presidents have said similar things. Some of them were learned students of economic problems. But it is doubtful if any of them ever saw as clearly as does President Coolidge, the relation between the material well-being of this nation and the independence and liberty which its citizens enjoy. It is something that they have, largely, overlooked.

An observation like that comes easily from President Coolidge, who, like few other men, fitted himself through long service to the public for the office of President. His whole life has been shaped toward preparing him for public office and responsibility and this expression, at Cannon Falls may be regarded as a crystallized example of the philosophy of life and politics that has guided Calvin Coolidge to the highest office in the land.

TOURIST BUSINESS INCREASING

THE DISPATCH published a news story the other day which gave an indication of the growth of the tourist business in the Brainerd Lake Region. During the month of July this year, Andrew Anderson, deputy oil inspector, inspected 80 carloads of gasoline. Last year in the same month, he inspected 63 carloads.

Another indication is the growth of telephone service. Direct long distance lines have been added to Minneapolis, Pine River and Breezy Point.

Three new direct long distance telephone lines were opened for service early in July, according to Henry D. Hoffmann, manager of the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company. These new lines were provided to care for the increased use made of long distance service for these points.

Before the new lines were opened some of these calls to and through Minneapolis had to be switched at Little Falls and St. Cloud. This switching is no longer necessary.

Brainerd now has four direct long distance telephone connections to Minneapolis, three to Duluth, three to Crosby, three to Breezy Point, two to Pine River, Wadena and Aitkin, according to Manager Hoffmann.

About 500 long distance calls a day are handled in the local telephone central office. Toll service has increased 100 per cent in the last three years. In former days 300 calls was considered a big day, nowadays 600 calls a day are sometimes handled in long distance work.

It all indicates the growth of lake and tourist business.

Mr. HOOVER is going to conduct a front-porch campaign as soon as he can remember where he lives when at home.—Ohio State Journal.

REAL STORY OUT AS TO WHY GENE TUNNEY QUIT THE RING

RECURRENCE OF BRAIN INJURY

FEARED BY HIM

LATTER MADE HIS MIND BLANK
FOR FOUR DAYS LAST
YEAR

SPARRING PARTNER GAVE HIM
WALLOP ON JAW WHICH
JARRED HIM

New York, Aug. 3.—(UP)—The New York Daily News in a copy-right story today said that Gene Tunney had quit the ring in order to prevent a recurrence of a brain injury that for four days made his mind a total blank a year ago.

Tunney, according to the story, divulged this at a tea attended by two members of the Daily News staff.

His wish to retire found its inception in the fright he received at Speculator last summer, where he was training for the second Dempsey fight. A sparring partner, whose name he refused to give, after butting Tunney, landed a terrific punch on Gene's jaw. For two days afterwards, according to the Daily News story, Tunney wandered about the camp virtually out of his mind.

"I didn't know where I was," Tunney was quoted as saying. "I didn't know my own name. When I looked out of the window at the landscape it looked dark and unfamiliar. Nobody will ever know how I struggled with myself to remember things. It took me forty-eight hours before I could win back enough reason to know I was Gene."

Then Tunney went on to say that it was "those seven socks to the chin Dempsey hit me in the seventh round in 'Chicago' that finally cleared his head and brought him back to normalcy."

CAMP LINCOLN TEAM COMPOSED

Yesterday afternoon, Coach Warren Kasch's All-Star baseball team, picked from the various playgrounds in the city, went to Camp Lincoln and played an all star team from the camp picked from the best of all under 14 years, the Brainerd team winning by the score of 18 to 5.

The locals were also picked from boys 14 years and under. The team earned its victory by outitting the camp boys. The fielding of the Brainerd boys was also very good. Templeton, Graff, Brandeau, Foster contributed heavily in the hitting. Graff and Brandeau, Heikinen and Larson were the bright lights in the fielding. The battery of the Brainerd team consisting of V. Wise, the catcher, and Joe Gabiou, pitcher, also contributed much to the low score of the Lincolnites. Joe Gabiou struck out ten of the opposing hitters. Foster made the best hit of the game, hitting the ball for three bases.

Either team was not dressed particularly for a baseball game for the Camp Lincoln boys were attired in everything from a swimming suit to an army suit. The local boys could have been called the Oshkosh-bogoshes because of the blue overall uniforms they wore.

BRAINERD, ONAMIA MEET HERE SUNDAY ON TERMS EVEN UP

VISITORS BOAST CLASSY TEAM WITH STARS FROM TWO
INDIAN SCHOOLS

KEN OLSEN TO BE SEEN IN ACTION ON MOUND; GAME TO START AT 3:15 P. M.

Brainerd meets the strong Onamia team next Sunday on the local grounds at 3:15 P. M.

The Onamia team is managed by Attorney Genno, who has gradually strengthened his team until it may be classed as one of the best in this district.

He has several Indian stars from Carlisle and Haskell Indian schools, as well as a very clever pitcher, who is being watched by big league scouts.

Ken Olson, pitching for the House of David, engaged this boy in a pretty pitchers' battle last Tuesday, being returned a winner by a 6 to 5 count in a very exciting game.

Brainerd's 1 to 1 tie in ten innings with the House of David makes the dope practically even for the game Sunday.

Our Galaxy of Stars

Lawson ROBERTSON OF PENN, COACH OF AMERICA'S OLYMPIC TEAM.

By QUIN HALL.
BY tonight a large part of the track and field events of this year's Olympics will be a matter of history.

True, the decathlon, the relays, the steeplechase, the discus throw, the running high jump for women and the marathon are still to be run off during tomorrow and Sunday, but a goodly number of the events have already been wrapped up and passed on to the Olympic historian.

This year, as always, the United States is being represented by an exceptionally strong team. The pick of Uncle Sam's athletes made up this year's pilgrimage to Amsterdam for world recognition in the field of sport.

Much which has been accomplished over there and much which it still to be accomplished in the closing hours is due to the coaching which our boys have received—tireless effort on the part of a handful of men whose praises are seldom sung; whose share in the glory of victory must be gathered from the knowledge that they, too, did their bit.

There has been some criticism over the current system of appointing Olympic coaches. There is always criticism, however, and there always will be no matter what system is employed in their selection. The critics this year, before the departure, seemed to aim their cudgels at the fact that few of the coaches appointed had any of their own men on the team. In other words, they said that it would be necessary for them to be introduced to the athletes they were to handle.

Whether this is a drawback is something for the powers to decide, but undoubtedly this year's coaches did their work ably and are capable handlers who quickly became acquainted with the eccentricities of their men.

The makeup of the coach staff this season included coaches from various sections of the country under the charge of Lawson Robertson, of Pennsylvania, who was named as head coach. As assistants he had Jack Ryder, Boston A. A.; Johnny Behr, Illinois, A. C.; "Dink" Templeton, Stanford; Eddie Farrell, Harvard; Johnny Magee, Bowdoin; Harry Hillman, Dartmouth; Wilbur Hutsell, Alabama Tech.; Henry Schulte, Nebraska; Mike Ryan, Colby; Bill Haywood, Oregon, and Tom Keane, Syracuse.

When it comes to knowing the athletes from all angles, Johnny Behr, of the Illinois A. C., is more fortunate than the rest of the mentors in that he has eight of his own men on the team. Ryder, of Boston, and Templeton, of Stanford, each have four representatives. Robertson has two, and Keane a single entry. The other athletes making up the team were tossed in with strange coaches, but they were well prepared for the final trials by their own coaches before making the team, and undoubtedly were not retarded by their contacts with strange mentors.

In this year's trials at Cambridge our athletes equaled or crashed many of the world, Olympic and American records and, as a result, the team departed for Holland confident of scoring sufficient points to again return from the wars victorious.

If they return triumphant more power to them and let's not forget the coaches. If they are beaten in the last reports they will still return with their heads unbowed and it would seem unsportsmanlike to blame the team or its coaches.

Under any circumstances they probably all did their best—and that's all that can be expected.

REAL STORY OUT AS TO WHY GENE TUNNEY QUIT THE RING

RECURRENCE OF BRAIN INJURY FEARED BY HIM

LATTER MADE HIS MIND BLANK
FOR FOUR DAYS LAST
YEAR

SPARRING PARTNER GAVE HIM
WALLOP ON JAW WHICH
JARRED HIM

New York, Aug. 3.—(UP)—The New York Daily News in a copy-right story today said that Gene Tunney had quit the ring in order to prevent a recurrence of a brain injury that for four days made his mind a total blank a year ago.

Tunney, according to the story, divulged this at a tea attended by two members of the Daily News staff.

His wish to retire found its inception in the fright he received at Speculator last summer, where he was training for the second Dempsey fight. A sparring partner, whose name he refused to give, after butting Tunney, landed a terrific punch on Gene's jaw. For two days afterwards, according to the Daily News story, Tunney wandered about the camp virtually out of his mind.

"I didn't know where I was," Tunney was quoted as saying. "I didn't

KASCH'S ALL STARS SHOW STRENGTH AT BAT TO SCORE WIN

JOE GABIOU STRIKES OUT TEN;
FOSTER GETS THREE-
BASE HIT

CAMP LINCOLN TEAM COMPOSED OF BOYS FROM EIGHT

Yesterday afternoon, Coach Warren Kasch's All-Star baseball team, picked from the various playgrounds in the city, went to Camp Lincoln and played an all star team from the camp picked from the best of all under 14 years, the Brainerd team winning by the score of 18 to 5.

The locals were also picked from boys 14 years and under. The team earned its victory by outitting the camp boys. The fielding of the Brainerd boys was also very good. Templeton, Graff, Brandeau, Foster contributed heavily in the hitting. Graff and Brandeau, Heikinen and Larson were the bright lights in the fielding. The battery of the Brainerd team consisting of V. Wise, the catcher, and Joe Gabiou, pitcher, also contributed much to the low score of the Lincolnites. Joe Gabiou struck out ten of the opposing hitters. Foster made the best hit of the game, hitting the ball for three bases.

Either team was not dressed particularly for a baseball game for the Camp Lincoln boys were attired in everything from a swimming suit to an army suit. The local boys could have been called the Oshkosh-bi-goshes because of the blue overall uniforms they wore.

The line-ups:
Camp Lincoln—Young, Des Moines, Ia., 2b; Everetts, Des Moines, 1b; Malach, Beaumont, Texas, ss; Leuthold, Casson, Minn., rf; Harrison, Oklahoma City, Okla., 3b; Clark, St. Joseph, Mo., c; McElowney, Oklahoma City, cf; Ayres, St. Joseph, Mo., lf; Bacon, Cando, N. ## SAYS FLAPPER IS GOOD MOTHER

TAKING NIP OF WHISKEY AND SMOKING DOES NOT EN- DANGER RACE

Denver, Colo., Aug. 3.—(UP)—A flapper can take a "nip" from a whisky bottle and puff cigarettes and still not endanger the health of her babies after marriage, Dr. John Whitridge Williams, professor of obstetrics at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, said here yesterday.

"Drink—and most women drink very little—does not harm mothers. In Germany, beer is a baby's first diet and in France, water is unknown," Dr. Williams declared.

"As for cigarettes—nothing to it. Women are just as able to smoke cigarettes as men and the effects are the same."

"Motherhood transcends the enlightened and blase exterior of flaming youth. Despite her longing for a 'kick' and her detestation for conventionality and sentiment, the flapper is a good mother," Dr. Williams contended.

"The girl of today is no different at heart than her mother," Dr. Williams continued. "Indulgences of flaming youth have nothing to do with the high infant death rate."

CAPT. JOHN STEGE OF CHICAGO POLICE BACK ON THE JOB

Chicago, Aug. 3.—(UP)—Captain John Stege of the Chicago police force is back on the job.

Stege, former energetic criminal hunter, was reappointed to a captaincy yesterday, after a period of idleness as a result of being ousted by Mayor William Hale Thompson 18 months ago. Today, Stege announced that he is looking for Al Capone and Joe Saltis, most famous of Chicago's gang leaders.

Stege wants Capone for the special crime commission hearing and he wants Saltis to serve out the 60-day sentence imposed some time ago on a gun-carrying charge.

It was also announced today that Stege will take over the position of commissioner of detectives next Monday.

THE distinguishing goodness of Premium Hams and Bacon led Swift & Company, years ago, to distinguish the appearance of the product so that identification at the time of purchase would be possible.

Many of these guides to identification, planned by Swift & Company for the protection of the purchaser—the branding on the rind, the sanitary wrapper, the blue tag—have become general trade practices.

Now, Swift & Company has inaugurated a new method of identification—the name "Swift" branded in dots on the side.

Hereafter, your smallest purchase will show whether you have or have not obtained the genuine Swift's Premium.

These new low prices are made possible by Firestone's victorious fight against the foreign monopoly which has resulted in the removal of all restrictions on the raw rubber supply. All Firestone prices have always been below those of other tires of equal quality, due to Firestone's great economies in manufacture and distribution. These tires are built in the world's greatest and most efficient factories where Firestone engineers have designed the machines which build the tires.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

ALEDA RAY, pretty country girl, working in New York as a stenographer, is in love with Gary Chester, young engineer. She is living with Marise de Rense, whose young sister, Goldie, is secretly engaged in a blackmailing game with Clive Mortimer, ne'er-do-well Englishman. Goldie and Mortimer receive a "commission" to arrange a party for Smithson, wealthy rounder. Goldie, jealous of Alede, tricks her into attending the party and then notifies Chester he will find Alede there. Gary arrives and, shocked at the affair, takes Alede home.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.
DON'T like it at all! I'm awfully uneasy, Clive!

The nightly show was finished at the Harvest Moon, and in one of the quaint little alcoves cut in the wall, and over the goldfish that were swimming in the illuminated glass table between them, Marise de Rense's anxious eyes fastened on the Englishman.

"Calamity Jane!" he teased. "Marise is too gay a name for you!"

In his faultlessly-fitting dinner jacket Clive lolled back. "This party Goldie's gone off on! These wild times, Clive! They're terrible for a young girl!"

"And what about an older girl?" He smiled in his cool, imperturbable fashion. "To use one of your own elegant expressions, don't you yourself get quite a kick out of life?"

"Not lately. Not—" Marise's voice trembled, "not in a long time."

He raised his brows. He hoped the foolish creature wasn't going to take him to task for neglect of her. Women of her age—especially if unmarried—could, if sentimental (and all of them were infernally romantic, he had found) become an awful pest!

"There's this flower shop, too, that Goldie spends so much of her time in!" Marise's eyelashes fluttered. "I've just heard about it, Clive. Oh, maybe they were only kidding. But they said—they said—"

He took his cigarette from his lips and gave her an irritated glance. There was disquiet in the twitching of his thin, well-shaped nostrils.

"What did they say? Why must you women forever make mountains out of molehills?"

She gulped. "They said the flowers were only a blind! The shop was a—a sort of a rendezvous—that people could get letters sent there that they wouldn't want delivered at their own homes! That out-of-town men who wanted a good time could drop in, and Goldie would get in touch with her girl friends and arrange meetings—and parties—"

Clive forced a laugh. That laugh rang hollow. It was intended to be amused and teasing—to ridicule Marise back into a state of unconsciousness. He didn't want Marise to pry into his private business, nor to put an untimely check on the little sister's activities that were going to prove so very lucrative to himself. "You mean that the little flower-shop's a matrimonial agency, eh?"

"Or—worse?" The tremulo was again in Marise's voice. "Oh, Goldie wouldn't understand what she was doing! She's so sociable and gay and thoughtless, she'd think it was great fun introducing people to each other, and—" watching developments! She wouldn't guess the danger back of it, the—complications! Sometimes, at nights—"Marise choked for a moment—"I stay awake for hours, worrying over the sort of a life that Goldie may be getting into—and she so unaware!"

"Her eyes were like those of a pitiful child. Her lips and hands were shaking."

"Come! Don't be so foolishly imaginative, Marise!"

"I'm not! This town—you know it! It's chock full of pitfalls for a young girl!"

"You talk like a Sunday school teacher!"

"I talk like someone who loves her sister, and wants to see her decently married to an honest man, and make something out of her life!"

"Well, maybe the flower shop will help her to that end, who knows?" He blew a ring of smoke from his cigarette. "If you keep Goldie cloistered like a nun, her chances won't be many. Let the girl have an opportunity of meeting men and getting offers."

"Behaving like this, only the wrong kind of offers will come Goldie's way! You know it as well as I do. That isn't the right kind of a life!"

"Well, what can I do? D'you want me to propose marriage to the child?" There was sarcasm in the refined voice, a quizzical gleam in the closely set eyes.

Marise drew a sharp breath. She murmured: "It isn't so long ago that you were telling me you cared for—for me, Clive?"

There was pain on her face, a heartache in that little stabbing sigh of hers.

He caught it. With a sudden change of manner he leaned across the lighted table in the alcove, towards her. "You're the silliest girl in the world, Marise—with your suspicions! You know it's you—and only you—I've always been crazy about!"

She smiled, through tears. "I'm not jealous. At heart you're a good fellow, Clive. Women have spoiled you, but I do—I do believe you care—for me—a little bit?"

(To be Continued.)

"Then stop this worrying!" He gave her hand a quick, ardent pressure.

But she reverted to the original subject. That was the worst of women . . . willy-nilly, he must keep his temper with her and not give the game away, thought Clive.

"I found a whole wad of dollars in Goldie's pocketbook! Where on earth could they have come from?"

"Don't make a fuss, Marise! I lent them to the child!"

"You?" She seemed startled and dubious. Clive-owed her a bill for board—it was long overdue—and there had been other "loans" . . .

He reddened, reading her mind. He said hastily: "You say you want Goldie to find a good husband? Between ourselves, I think she's set on that good-looking fellow who came here with the titled woman—Countess Dellamanc—he seemed very taken with Goldie. She told me if only she could afford better clothes, she'd maybe have a chance of marrying the right man—someone she was 'crazy about'!"

At this explanation, Marise's face lightened. She said, eagerly: "I remember him. Don't know his name, but I'll ask Goldie. I heard he was very clever and steady."

And he looked a thorough gentleman, and—exactly the right sort! Oh, Clive, do you really think—it would be so splendid if he should come to care for Goldie? It was kind of you to help."

He grinned. "Suppose I am running a private matrimonial agency for Goldie, what on earth are you kicking about?"

They ate bacon and eggs, the harmony restored between them. Marise's fears about the little sister were allayed. Her thoughts reverted to this gentlemanly admirer—Goldie's future—it would be too wonderful to see her settled and safe, and out of this Broadway crowd—

"It's after two. I must be getting along back home, and see if Goldie's back." She left the Harvest Moon and soon was on the steps of the house on West Fortieth Street.

As she was fitting her key into the lock, up to the curb slid a long, low-slung car. Alede and a tall young man got out, came towards the steps. She heard the young man say, an eager tenderness in his voice: "If you would dine with me tomorrow evening, we could talk the matter over?"

Marise swung about. Light from a street lamp fell upon the couple. She recognized at once the same young man on whom she had just been building castles for her sister—

Alede (resentment flamed in Marise's heart for Goldie!) Alede had "got" the man whom poor little Goldie was "crazy about!"

HOOVER IS POLISHING UP IMPORTANT SPEECH

REPUBLICAN NOMINEE DENIES HIMSELF TO ALL CALLERS

SPEECH TO OPEN PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN WEEK FROM TOMORROW

By PAUL R. MALLON

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Palo Alto, Calif., Aug. 3.—(UP)—Herbert Hoover was not "at home" today.

The republican nominee denied himself to all callers and locked himself in his study to dot the final "I" and cross the final "T" of his 3,500 word acceptance speech which is to open the presidential campaign a week from tomorrow.

Hoover never before attacked such an important political document and he is having difficulty working it out. He started on the speech a month ago, first completed it two weeks ago, then re-wrote some of its provisions, cut it down by 2,000 words and now he is wrestling with the printed copy, which is to be given to newspapers confidentially in advance of its delivery.

Dante Pierce, Des Moines, Iowa, Farm Journal editor, brought Hoover a cheering report from the agricultural belt late yesterday before the candidate went into seclusion.

Pierce declared that George Peek, chairman of the corn belt committee of twenty two who has been in friendly conference with Governor Alfred E. Smith, the democratic nominee, "is a democrat and is associated with democrats."

"Peek does not represent the views of a majority of the farmers," Pierce said.

"Then stop this worrying!" He gave her hand a quick, ardent pressure.

But she reverted to the original subject. That was the worst of women . . . willy-nilly, he must keep his temper with her and not give the game away, thought Clive.

"I found a whole wad of dollars in Goldie's pocketbook! Where on earth could they have come from?"

"Don't make a fuss, Marise! I lent them to the child!"

"You?" She seemed startled and dubious. Clive-owed her a bill for board—it was long overdue—and there had been other "loans!"

He reddened, reading her mind. He said hastily: "You say you want Goldie to find a good husband? Between ourselves, I think she's set on that good-looking fellow who came here with the titled woman—Countess Dellamanna—he seemed very taken with Goldie. She told me if only she could afford better clothes, she'd maybe have a chance of marrying the right man—someone she was 'crazy about!'"

At this explanation, Marise's face lightened. She said, eagerly: "I remember him. Don't know his name, but I'll ask Goldie. I heard he was very clever and steady—and he looked a thorough gentleman, and—exactly the right sort! Oh, Clive, do you really think—it would be so splendid if he should come to care for Goldie? It was kind of you to help."

He grinned. "Suppose I am running a private matrimonial agency for Goldie, what on earth are you kicking about?"

They ate bacon and eggs, the harmony restored between them. Marise's fears about the little sister were allayed. Her thoughts reverted to this gentlemanly admirer—Goldie's future—it would be too wonderful to see her settled and safe, and out of this Broadway crowd—

"It's after two. I must be getting along back home, and see if Goldie's back." She left the Harvest Moon and soon was on the steps of the house on West Fortieth Street.

As she was fitting her key into the lock, up to the curb slid a long, low-slung car. Alela and a tall young man got out, came towards the steps. She heard the young man say, an eager tenseness in his voice: "If you would dine with me tomorrow evening, we could talk the matter out!"

Marise swung about. Light from a street lamp fell upon the couple. She recognized at once the same young man on whom she had just been building castles for her sister—

Alela (resentment flamed in Marise's heart for Goldie!) Alela had "seduced" the man whom poor little Goldie was "crazy about!"
